An Appeal to the Public.—THE LIFE SAVING BENEVOLEST ASSOCIATION OF NEW-YORK was formed and chartered in 1849, its object being to procure Life-Boats and Station-Houses, with materials for saving life in cases of shipwreck, to encourage meritorious conduct by granting therefor medals and pecuniary rewards.

Through the liberality of Congress numerous Life-Boat Stations have been established on the shores of Long Island and New-Jersey, by which more than 1,200 persons have been rescued from impending death. Without these means of escape, the dreadful tragedy of the Mexico and Bristol would have been repeated. The immense and constantly increasing commerce of this port demands of the citizens of this emporium the most comprehensive plan and effective means for saving the lives of the ship-wrecked. And what nobler sim, what more humane eachievement than that of rescuing the poor emigrant and the tempestlossed mariner from the jaws of death? The services of all those connected with the Association are wholly gratuitous, but their

This work, which combines literature with theology, has always sustained high reputation for learning and ability—nearly all the more eminent Unitarians of the day having been at different times numbered among its contributors. Papers and essays which have since been collected into distinct volumes, with the names of distinguished scholars and divines, and men of a noble public spirit, as their authors, first found their circle of renders. The list of the writers in this series of works for the last balf-century, it is believed, would embrace the names of renders. The list of the writers in this series of works for the last balf-century, it is believed, would embrace the names of the majority of those who have been distinguished as literary men or scholars in New-England, and even over a wider region, during the interval of time.

The Christian Examiner is published on the first days of January, March, May, July, September and November, in numbers of 156 octavo pages each, at $4 per annum.

By the author of "John Drayton."

Beautifully bound in muslin, 75 cents, nearly bound in paper, 50 cents.

"Written with charming simplicity and fidelity to nature, and producing powerful dramatic effects. It is one of those rare nevels from which much can be learned of the workings of the human heart and the experiences of humbel life."

N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

"It has already had an extensive run in England. In correct portraiture of character, geniality of humor, and benevolent rhilesophy of aim, we have not for a long time met with a wark which has pleased us more."

"A very interesting story, written with that charming ease and unanceted confidence that marks a practiced pen, and a working, well-trained brain." [Sprinsfield Republican." It is a successful work, and may be safely pronounced one of the best of Stringer & Townsend's Library of Standard Novels."

It is told with delightful simplicity, abounds in interesting events, and grows in attractiveness to the close. Pervaded by tranquil beauty and natural feeling, as a novel for family reading it is surpassed by two productions." [N. Y. Tribune." It is a powerfully written romance, exhibiting strong passion, fine character-drawing, and all the elements that go to make up an interesting story."

FROM THE LEADING LONDON JOURNALS:

"Allieford is a captivating story—a story which it is a privilege to read and a pleasure to remember. The characters are happily conceived and vigorously portrayed."

"Among the fictions of homely, domestic life, in which truth is to compensate for the absence of ideal beauty, Allieford deserves to rank high."

"A work abounding in fascination of an irresistible kind. Among the entire range of modern literature, there has been nothing superior to it recently gives to the public."

"A delightful tale—full of affecting incident, briller description, and profound reflection." [The London Athensum.

"The reflex of life is so true that the book throughout excites the interest of reality."

IX. American Poetry.

X. German Emigration to America.

XI. Critical Notices.

The North American Review has now attained its 170th number, having been published without intermission for more than forty years. It is far the oldest American product devoted to general literature and science, and its reputation has been steadily maintained, both in this country and in Europe, as the leading Surnal of the United States within its appropriate department.

The New York Enquirer says:

leading garran of the United States within its appropriate department.

The New-York Enquirer says:

"The North American Review is associated with the earliest promise of American literature. Hardly a name now considerable in our country for letters, but gained its earliest luster as a contributor to its pages. It nursed into life the abilities of some, and the reputation of others. Spairs, Everett, Ticknor, Prescott, Bancroft, made their maiden efforts in its service, and found their first public in its patrons. Its editors alone form an illustrious line of literary worthies, connecting the earliest with the most recent of American reputations.

"If any review in America has had a national character and influence, it is this. Indeed, its contributors and subscribers have represented and connected the remotest parts of the country, from Detroit to New-Orleans, from St. Louis to Boston. The South has furnished many splendid easys for its pages, while its prestige in the cultivated circles there long surpassed that of all other journals. It has been among newspapers,—dignified, national, conservative, indispensable to every well-furnished library, or elegant center-table."

MRS, CROWEN'S AMERICAN LADY'S COOK-BOOK is not a compilation, but a Book of Practical Recepts from practical knowledge. Unlike others of its class is is a book not made merely to sell, but a book made for use—to fill a void—to satisfy a public want. It need only be tried to fully appreciated, and when tried will not be found wanting. while appreciated, and when their win not be found wanted.

While many have used and recommended it, many, also are still without it. It is placed within the reach of all; while the large and more comprehensive one is sold at One Dollar, a smaller and abridged form may be had for Twenty-five Cents.

"EVERY LADD'S BOOK, a COMPLETE PRACTICAL INTERCORD IN THE ART OF AMERICAN COMPLET, is published by KIGGINS & KELLOGO. The larger one by THOMAS J. CROWEN, No. 006 Broadway, corner of Fourth-st. COUSIN'S ELEMENTS OF PSYCHOLOGY.

THE CONFIDENTIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF NAPOLEON BONAPARTE With HIS BROTHER JOSEPH,
Selected and Translated, with Explanatory Notes, from the "Memoriers du Rud Joseph,"
Two thick Volumes, 12ms.
No book has yet appeared which furnishes so correct a portraiture of the character of Napoleon. He was in almost daily communication with his brother Joseph, from his first appointment as the General of Brigade, down to the 16th of June, 1810.
We cannot form a correct idea of the character of the great mind that swayed over nearly the whole Continent of Europe, without reading these Letters, which, unlike official correspondence, opens to us the inmost thoughts and motives of action of the writer. These Letters bear upon every subject, and we see with what a watchful eye he cared for even the smallest thing.
A distinguished critic has observed in examining the early chects, that "Blographers will have to write their biographies of Napoleon over again."

As a large demand is anticipated for this work, orders should be forwarded early. The mount discount to the Trade.

THE CHIP-BOY OF THE DRY-DOCK.—
TWe understand the impression is abroad that the work we publish with the above title is identical with the Drama of the same title, a few weeks since played at the Bowery Theater, the two, however, have nothing in common, save the title and the names of the leading characters; and these, some would be dramatist-probably an employee of "Old Howery"—plagiarized from the book. If the author of the drama, or his instinator, intended faithfully to dramatize the book, he has run wide of the nark, and has so workully perverted and multilated the beautiful and unique style sud plot of "the latter, that, were it not ter the synonymous title and names, no trace of the one would be recognizable in the other. Or it, to avoid "an injunction," he intended to plagiarize so much only of the book as would answer his purpose, and thus rob an industrious and tolling mechanic of the pitrance he might receive as copyright on the sale of the pure and burning thought—to breathe forth which and give, literally give, it to the world, he has deprived himself of that midnight repose so needful after the day's incessant toil—he has committed a deed for which let an impartial community judge him.

The book is an 8vo, bound in paper, and for sale by all Booksellers. Price 25 cents.
